

Noted Physicians To Hold Clinics Here

First of the series of postgraduate lectures in pediatrics will be given at Grayling next Wednesday evening (May 5) when Dr. John F. Sander, Lansing child specialist, will address physicians from many surrounding counties who will gather at 6 o'clock for a dinner meeting at Mercy Hospital.

Dr. Sander will speak on "The Contagious Diseases of Childhood." The lectures will be sponsored here on Wednesday evening for the next four weeks by the Michigan Department of Health. The state and local medical societies, the Michigan Branch of the American Academy of Pediatrics and the University of Michigan Department of Postgraduate Medicine aided in planning the course.

Other prominent pediatricians who will appear here include Dr. W. C. C. Cole of Detroit Women's Hospital, Dr. John L. Law, University of Michigan instructor in pediatrics, and Dr. J. A. Johnston, chief pediatrician at Detroit Henry Ford Hospital. Management of Abnormalities in the Newborn, Respiratory Infections Including Pneumonia, Management of Any Acute Illness with Fever and A Simple Plan for Feeding the Normal Infant will be discussed during the course. Physicians may arrange individual consultations with the speaker the morning following each lecture.

The pediatric lectures, a phase of Michigan's maternal and child health program, are also being offered to physicians at Cadillac on Tuesday evenings, and Alpena on Thursday evenings.

Small Town Day Is Just Dawning

SAYS ARCHBOLD (OHIO) EDITOR IN RECENT PAPER.

Factories Go Suburban.

Now that a minimum wage law has been sanctioned by the Supreme Court, the incentive to small factories to locate in the village and suburban centers is still greater. Numerous manufacturing plants are being placed in towns of under 5,000. With a number of such small plants in small towns the great manufacturer is almost immune from strikes and labor troubles. If agitators organize the workmen to strike in one town, they can merely turn the key on the plant and let the workers settle it themselves, while they open a similar plant in some other town and go on with production. On the other hand the small town will welcome a number of small factories which are not as liable to shut down at one time as might a large plant. The day of the small town is just dawning.

Members of the Izaak Walton League from all parts of the country will convene at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago on April 29, when its fifteenth annual convention gets under way.

National authorities on various phases of wildlife, forest and water restoration will take part in the program. They include Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, chief of the U. S. Biological Survey, Ernest G. Holt of the Soil Conservation Service, Frank T. Bell, U. S. Commissioner of Fisheries, all of Washington, D. C.; Dr. P. A. Herbert of Michigan State College; Morris M. Cohn, Sanitary Engineer and editor of Municipal Sanitation; Henry Keitzel, Secretary of Buffalo's Sewer Authority, Buffalo, New York; Tom Wallace, editor, Louisville Times; Dr. Charles E. Holzer, president, Ohio Valley Conservation and Flood Control Congress; J. N. Darling, "Ding" of cartoon fame, and others.

Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania and co-worker of Teddy Roosevelt, who gave the first real impetus to the establishment of national forests to defeat exploitation of timber resources, will address the convention on the proposals for reorganizing federal departments. Pinchot's talk will feature reorganization with reference to disposition of such agencies as the Biological Survey, Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Bureau of Fisheries, Park Service and others. While conservationists have long agitated for a Department of Conservation in the Federal Government with full cabinet status, they are skeptical of proposals to change the name of the Department of Interior to Conservation and clothe it with only some of the conservation activities now centered in the Department of Agriculture.

Of special interest to the duck hunter will be Doctor Gabrielson's talk on Friday morning, April 30, when he takes the floor to discuss the much debated question of duck decline and prospects for future sport.

George McCullough, wildlife technician of the Federal Cartilage Company, Minneapolis, will tell of the setting up of wildlife projects by 4-H Club members in over twenty of the midwestern states, while youth activities in the schools will be presented in motion pictures by R. L. Swanson, president of the Appleton, Wisconsin, Izaak Walton League.

National officers of the League are: President, Judge George W. Wood, Waterloo, Iowa; Otto C. Doering, 333 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, treasurer; Tappan Gregory, 19 South LaSalle Street, Chicago, secretary, and S. B. Locke, conservation director.

Grant Employers Chance For Refund

Detroit, April 28—A new regulation permitting a tax refund to an estimated 3,000 small employers who failed to deduct the first $6,000 in computing their 1936 payroll contributions, was announced today by the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission.

"Employers who because of error or misapprehension failed to claim the permissive statutory deduction of $6,000 are now permitted to file an amended contribution report within 120 days from the date when their report was due," Frank A. Picard, commission chairman, explained.

"We estimate that about 3,000 small employers, not subject to the federal excise tax on payrolls because they did not have eight or more employees during 1936, will benefit from this new commission ruling.

"In order for them to claim the refund they must submit an amended return together with a sworn statement setting forth the circumstances of their error before July 20, next. The commission will pass on their claim and authorize a refund. This amounts to nine-tenths of one percent of the employer's payroll if the total was less than $6,000. If the total was over $6,000, the refund will be $54.00, the contribution paid on the first $6,000."

Mr. Picard stressed the fact that the new regulation is beneficial only to those employers not subject to the federal tax regarding unemployment compensation.

"Employers subject to the federal tax get credit for their entire state contributions if they paid before April 1—against their one percent federal tax," he said.

Amended employer's contribution report forms and adjustment and refund claim reports are being printed and will be available for employers who desire a refund, Mr. Picard said.

"We will mail out these forms to employers whom we note have erroneously paid a state contribution on this $6,000, but employers who do not receive such forms from the commission should write to our office in the Fox building, Detroit, and the forms will be sent them."

Although the state commission has not yet set the date for the first collection of 1937 payroll contributions, Mr. Picard and Paul L. Stanchfield, acting director, were scheduled to leave Detroit tonight for Washington to discuss the 1937 collections with the Federal Social Security Board.

"We also will submit our budget for the second quarter for the Board's approval," Mr. Picard said. "The entire expenses of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission are paid by the Federal Social Security Board and none of the contributions paid by Michigan employers into the state fund may be used for anything except for payment of unemployment benefits on and after January 1, 1939."

The new regulation, adopted by the state commission, is known as Regulation 8 and follows in full:

"An employer subject to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Act, who has filed an Employer's Contribution Report for the calendar year 1936, and because of error or misapprehension failed to claim the permissive statutory deduction of $6,000 may file an amended Contribution Report for the same year, within 120 days from the date when said original report was due, affirmatively claiming therein the said deduction.

"Such employer may thereafter make application for an adjustment or refund to which he may claim to be entitled by virtue of said amended report in the manner provided by the Act. Said application shall be accompanied by a sworn statement setting forth the fact and circumstances of said alleged error or misapprehension.

"The Commission shall, upon determination that such employer is entitled to an adjustment or refund, authorize either an adjustment or refund, as the case may be, pursuant to the provisions of Section 16 of the Act."

Public Opinion

Grayling, Mich.
April 28, 1937

The article regarding the building line that appeared last week in this column was written by me and one other member of the council. Mr. O. P. Schumann, our Editor, had nothing to do with writing this article.

Yours very truly,
Chris W. Olsen.

The following letter was received by our former Mayor, now councilman Chris W. Olsen. It is slightly private but the public in Grayling might be interested in the attitude taken by City Manager Harry Nelson of Bay City when for many years has been connected with the Council of Bay City:

Bay City, Mich.
April 24, 1937

Chris W. Olsen, Mayor
Grayling, Michigan

Dear Friend and Mayor, Chris:

Greetings from the old Scandinavian ex-Mayor of this man's town.

I heard yesterday that the city of Grayling is planning to cut down the sidewalks on its main street. Chris, if you think anything at all of the future of your town you will fight to beat hell to prevent such a move. Your citizens will be sorry the rest of their days if you spoil that nice wide main street with its ideal width of sidewalk! You have something now that you can be proud of. I only wish that our pioneers could have seen far enough ahead to have planned for today. We would not have the helter-skelter unsightly business fronts up and down our main streets that we have to look at at the present time.

Chris, believe me when I tell you that it would be a damned shame and a costly one if your City Council goes for any change in your street width or in your sidewalk width.

I am sorry to spout off like this but my experience tells me that I owe it to you folks in Grayling (one of the two best towns in Michigan, the other of course is Bay City) to at least tell you.

I am sending a copy of this letter to your City Manager. He should know better than to encourage such a move. If it is allowed to go through you can be sure that the reflection will be on both the Mayor and the City Manager.

With best regards, I am
Yours very truly,
J. Harry Nelson,
City Manager.

Trout Festivals Draw Big Crowds

Last week end saw trout festivals held at Kalkaska and at West Branch, and in spite of cold weather, both sides enjoyed big crowds.

The Kalkaska festival started out with a fine parade of floats Friday noon. There were some very attractive entries, many of which were highly suggestive of the occasion and others were humorous. Bands lined up the marchers and altogether it was a parade that any city the size of Kalkaska might well be proud of.

The turtle race immediately following the parade was the next big attraction and caused a lot of sport and merriment. Fifty small turtles released from the center of a circle, thirty feet in diameter, started for the outer rim where numbers were written upon the pavement. If you held the lucky number that was first crossed by a turtle—that meant that you won a cash prize of about $35. Other cash prizes were won as other turtles crossed the goals and ranged down from $10 to $1. It was a lot of sport and everyone there enjoyed it whether he won a prize or not.

Dr. C. R. Keyport of Grayling was one of the turtle race judges. Fly casting contests, visiting the state police and conservation commission exhibits kept the big crowd busy the remainder of the afternoon.

At 6:00 p. m. the press and fishermen banquet at Hotel Kalkaska was held. Ben East, outdoor writer for the Booth daily newspapers of Michigan was the toastmaster. The chicken dinner with all the trimmings, nicely served, was a credit to that hostelry. During the banquet Ford's Mountaineers kept the crowd well entertained with their music. Quite a number of newspaper writers from Detroit, Grand Rapids and many editors of weekly newspapers were in attendance. The Press boys were introduced but not allowed to talk for fear they wouldn't know when to stop. That's where Ben East showed rare discretion.

After the banquet the crowd assembled at Kalkaska's new school gym and listened to a program of "lies" told by a number of professional prevaricators. Certainly there were some whoopers. This was followed by a program presented by Eddie and Kittie Robinson of Traverse City when they presented a "kiddies revue." Youngsters from tiny tots to high school youngsters entertained with a most pleasing program of fancy dancing and songs. It is surprising what the Robinsons have done for young boys and girls in the dancing art. The audience, that filled the big gym to standing room only, was beautifully entertained.

Saturday was devoted to fishing, sightseeing and the awarding of prizes for many contests in fishing and other features. In the evening was the closing event of the festival in a fishermen's ball. Here too there was a big crowd present.

At all events the festival queen and king were presented. Miss Dimple Wells, pretty high school senior, made a charming queen. And equally gracious was that well known out-door writer of the Detroit Free Press, Jack VanCoevering, in the capacity of festival trout king.

Dr. Kellerman, chairman of the trout festival, was ably as-

"Meet The Duchess" Kiwanis Entertains Fathers and Sons

Next Tuesday, May 4th, promises to be a gala night for play enthusiasts when the Seniors present their play "Meet the Duchess."

This play portrays the story of little Elsie Blake of Hogman, Iowa, who won a popularity contest back home and then descended on Hollywood primed for conquest and glory.

What happened to her there results in a hilarious and altogether delightful play which promises to provide an evening of delightful entertainment to all who attend.

The cast is as follows:
Dixie (a colored maid)—Dorothy Wakeley.
Joy January (formerly of Vaudeville)—Pauline Entsminger.
Gaylord Grant (a tragedian)—Bill Joseph.
Mrs. Muggles (mother)—Donna Griffith.
Kempie Muggles (a child prodigy)—Ruth Stevenson.
Mrs. Plop (the landlady)—Mary Montour.
Elsie Blake (of Hogman)—Margaret Buck.
Ronnie Ward (an unemployed press agent)—Kermit Charron.
Erasmus J. Dinsmore (a professor)—Herbert Feldhauser.
Sam Strudle (Pres. of Levittan Films)—Donald Peterson.
Mary Smayne (who used to be a star)—Marguerite Feldhauser.

The Seniors, under the direction of Miss MacDonald, have been practicing for several weeks for this big event and they promise one and all a big time.

The curtain goes up at 8:00 sharp so let's plan to be there.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments ever held here was the one sponsored by the Kiwanis Club Wednesday night. Last President Emil Gregling and Rev. Edgar Flory were the special attraction in charge. Instead of the usual many speeches making the program was taken up by a variety of songs led by Roy A. Wright and Mrs. Clippert at the piano a couple of instrumental numbers played by a quartet of the made up of John Henry Peterson, John Herbert Feldhauser and Norman Staphan, saxophones, with Miss Bath at the piano and motion pictures presented by D. H. Day of Traverse City.

The banquet was served at Michelson Memorial church by the Ladies Aid.

The pictures were some that Mr. Day had taken personally, showing scenes of a battle in the wilds of Canada, a run through the south sea and the Traverse City cherry festival. Most of the pictures were of scenes and certain ones had audience a fine view of some of the scenic wonders of both the north and south. The pictures of his hunting trip, accompanied by one other and three Indian guides, were thrilling as well as beautiful. Seven reels were presented and every one was a masterpiece of photography. The dads and sons thoroughly enjoyed the evening.

RADIO TROUBLES

An irate radio owner at Manistiquette brought the weekly newspaper the following ad:

"WANTED—A gadget for my radio. A gadget that will do for my neighbors' motors what my neighbors' motors do for my radio—turn them into a sputtering, rumbling, crackling mass of junk—their usefulness completely destroyed, a waste of money, an irritation, an outrage."

Local people are constantly objecting to the interference which always seems to occur just when they want to hear a program, and are demanding that something be done about it.

We thought Grayling was the only town that had this trouble, but it seems to be quite general, according to this advertisement. We don't know what can be done about it, but something should be done.

sisted by L. Kramer of Saginaw, who put on a program of publicity that is certain to bring to Kalkaska many new faces for years to come to participate in summer recreations among the lakes and streams of that city. The committee is to be congratulated on the manner in which the festival was conducted and the program that was so nicely presented. And, contrary to the usual habit of carnival programs, everything was pulled off exactly at the time scheduled on the programs.

West Branch always gets a big crowd and stage a good program. They opened their festival on Friday night when the K. of C. Minutemen of Bay City presented a show in the new auditorium.

Saturday was somewhat cold and rainy but there were plenty of fishermen to try their luck in the noted West Branch trout pond, where, it is claimed, there are more trout than in any one spot in Michigan. And there were a lot of good catches.

The big event at West Branch was the street parade. This was the finest carnival parade we have ever witnessed in any northern Michigan city. The merchants and civic organizations presented some very elaborate floats. Grayling American Legion Drum and Bugle corps made a fine appearance in the parade. There were drum corps and bands present from Bay City, Alpena, Gaylord, Mio, Midland and other cities.

If West Branch had had a bigger crowd on Sunday we don't know how the people would have found parking space. The streets for several blocks along the line of the parade march, were lined with people.

The East Michigan Tourist association had a display in the auditorium that was interesting and attracted a lot of attention. In spite of cold and threatening rain, the crowd seemed to be having a good time.

THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1937

AN unfortunate situation exists in regard to the establishment of the property building line in the Michigan avenue business district. Recently the city council passed a resolution determining that the building line be established 1 1/2 feet from the true property line, which is of various distances out from the present store buildings. This was quite satisfactory to several property owners desiring to construct new store buildings. Esbern Olson, who is ready to construct two new stores in the corner of Michigan and Penninsular avenues and Frank Sales who would build next to the Chris Olson store. Now it appears that opponents to this plan are requesting that the matter be brought into circuit court for determination. We understand it is claimed that the resolution passed was illegal in its phrasing, giving "immediate effect." Now the matter must come up in circuit court in order to determine the matter and for all and become a record effecting this matter in the future. In the mean time Esbern Olson has had a crew of workmen lay paving the corner building that was burned a year ago, preparatory to building. As far as the circuit court is concerned we can't see how it is going to have authority to say where the building line must be except that property owners cannot build out beyond the real property line. In the two blocks effected in the controversy this would mean that owners could build out even with Shoppers' Inn on the north side, and with the Sorenson furniture store on the south side. These places are about on the real property line, more or less. Thus, we believe, is not the desire of anyone, but we doubt if a court would have the authority to determine otherwise. What the court would do would be to act as a mediator and hear arguments on both sides of the question and consider the desires of property owners within these two effected blocks, together with possibly the members of the city council, the duly elected representatives of the people. Unfortunately as a matter is causing more or less

SOUND ADVICE TO YOUTH

It was sound advice to youth seeking its opportunity which F. E. Searle, superintendent of the Henry Ford trade school, gave at the "career conference" lately held in New York. Skill, personality and imagination counts for more than "luck" and "getting the breaks," he said. Luck dogs the heels of the competent workers with vision and willingness to work. Industry is looking for skilled workers, and a place can always be found for the earnest, energetic man who is willing to pay the penalty of extra work.

Not only Mr. Searle but others at the conference brought out the fact, which youth does not always realize that the men and women, who get ahead in the world are the ones who set no limit on their working hours. For the unambitious the 40-hour week suffices. For one who would rise to a better job, the less he thinks of his hours of labor the more certain and swift his promotion comes. Leaders in business and industry do not come out of the ranks of "clock-watchers." The executives at the head of any business always put in longer hours than do any of their subordinates.

Men of experience know that so well that it does not always occur to them that each new generation needs to be taught the eternal truth which Longfellow expressed in familiar verse.

"The heights by great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight.

But they, while their companions
slept,
Were toiling upward in the night."

Employers always know which of their employees are "toiling upward in the night" and have them marked for promotion ahead of those who leave all thought of work behind them when the quitting whistle blows. —Chesaning Argus.

Mother's Cook Book

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

IT is generally conceded an efficient housekeeper is one who cannot be moved from her serenity by an onslaught of unexpected company.

The hostess who tries to be cordial and hospitable while her mind is traveling in circles as to what she is going to feed them, should after one experience learn to provide for the unexpected.

With a well-stocked emergency shelf (if she hasn't a corner grocery at her finger's end), she may be serene and happy with no strain on her hospitality.

The list of staples to be kept for such occasions will vary with the taste of the housewife; however, there are some things which are always in order, such as cheese, crackers, cookies, pickles, olives, as well as the good things from the fruit shelf. Desserts and salads may be quickly prepared from a can of peaches or pears.

Did you ever add coconut (washing off the sugar if it is the dried kind), with a few chopped pickles—sour ones, to a salmon salad, in a nest of shredded cabbage or lettuce? It is good and not common.

A farmer's wife, though she is far from the corner grocery, has much the advantage of a city dweller. She will have chicken, canned, fried and stewed; hams from her own smoke house and such foods, though common enough to her will be most appreciated by her city guest. From her fruit closet she will bring canned corn and other vegetables that are so much like the fresh ones that they are most welcome. Fruits and berries, jams and jellies, are always provided in the farmhouse. With the fresh thick cream, an omelet or scramble eggs, a slice of nicely cooked home-smoked ham, hot biscuits, berries, either fresh or canned—could anyone ask for a daintier or more appetizing meal? If the farm wife would just remember what is common to her is a treat to her city friend, her meals would lack that "trying to do something and can't" effect so often given.

Steps Up Car Service At Straits

Lansing, April 26.—The state highway department stepped up ferry service at the Straits of Mackinac Saturday when the state boat, Straits of Mackinac, resumed service.

State Highway Commissioner Murray D. VanWagoner announced that the leased ice-crusher, Sainte Marie, which has been operated by the department during the winter season, would continue until May 1. The two boats will make ten trips daily from each port. State boats are not ice-crushers.

On May 1, the Sainte Marie will be taken out of service and another of the state-owned boats will begin operations. Schedules will then be expanded to eleven trips daily. First trips each morning will be at six o'clock and last trips at nine in the evening. Boats will leave each port at hour-and-a-half intervals. This schedule will continue until July 1 when the third state boat will begin operations.

Paul Morley, of Saginaw, is giving a little party tonight at the Morley Lodge, on the North Branch of the AuSable river, to a few of his Grayling friends.

James Olson who has been at Mercy Hospital for several weeks, suffering from a serious illness, has been dismissed and is feeling perfectly well again. He is holding his old position as bookkeeper at the R. Hanson and Sons office at T. Town.

The trout fishing season opens tomorrow, and already tourists are arriving for their annual outings along the many fine streams in this county. The limit of catch this year is 35 in one day, and at no time can there be more than 50 trout in one's possession.

BING AND BAM

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE USED to hear a swinging gate.

But now we hear a car door slam.

At least goes bang, and often bam!

We used to warble "Sweet and Low"

Or "In the Gloaming" in the gloom.

But now an eight-tube radio

Lets loose a brass band in the room.

We used to hear a neighbor's knock.

But now we hear a doorbell ring

That you can hear a half a block.

For things go bam, at least go bing.

We used to talk but now we yell.

You have to in a noisy flat,

For even people now as well.

Go bing and bam and things like that.

We used to have one noisy day.

The good old Fourth went bing and bam.

But now the whole year is that way.

Except the Fourth, that's like a clam.

We used to live here 'way back when,

A place where noise is never known,

And so we've moved out here again—

One minute, there's the telephone!

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis

FROM our preceding lessons we have learned that the fingers of the hand are the most important part of the body. They are the fingers that do the work of the hand. They are the fingers that are the most sensitive to touch. They are the fingers that are the most important part of the body.

A fine line of work is the work of the fingers. They are the fingers that do the work of the hand. They are the fingers that are the most sensitive to touch. They are the fingers that are the most important part of the body.

The Over-ambitious Finger of Jupiter. Three fingers of the hand are the most important part of the body. They are the fingers that do the work of the hand. They are the fingers that are the most sensitive to touch. They are the fingers that are the most important part of the body.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes
By JEAN NEWTON

WHAT IS A LIE?

ONE of the most interesting and far-reaching of all the questions that have ever been asked is the question of the truth. It is a question that has been asked by philosophers, scientists, and men of letters. It is a question that has been asked by the greatest minds of the world. It is a question that has been asked by the greatest minds of the world.

It seems to me that there is a good idea gone wrong. It is the other extreme from the rigorous and cruel viewpoint of making a child feel like a criminal for indulging in a little "wish thinking" or allowing an active imagination to slightly color or exaggerate an incident.

I believe it is unquestionable that a child should never be made to feel like a criminal, should never be called a liar. On the other hand, it is no less dangerous and wrong to condone such disregard of veracity as "misconstruing" in his own favor the actions of others. In that case I believe a spade should be called a spade. For the child is father of the man. Our chief job with the child is building the character of the man.

If we are to encourage the "natural tendency to say what he wishes were so instead of what actually is so," it is not a very far cry to his saying that something which belongs to another boy is his. And what then about appropriating that dollar which he "wishes" were his? Also if we are to accept with approval distortion in his favor of the behavior of others, what shall we say if later he says "I borrowed that boy's bike because he told me I could"—or of some damage for which he is responsible that "the other fellow did it?"

Compared with many of the old ways, today's methods of dealing with children are a distinct improvement. But it is important always to avoid dangerous extremes, to keep within the guiding light of common sense.

EASY

An Irishman crossed the Atlantic to try his luck in America. When he arrived in New York a sailor came up to him and inquired: "Are a stranger here, Buddy?" "Sure I am!" "Well," continued the other, "whenever you travel in a train on this side, never ride in the last coach." "But why shouldn't I ride in the last coach?" "Because that's where all the accidents happen!" The Irishman scratched his head for a moment. Then his face brightened as he exclaimed: "Begorra! If all the accidents happen to the last coach, why don't they leave it out?"—Tit-Bits Magazine.

THE REASON

"Jack is a killing chap all right." "Well, that's why they call him 'Wood Alcohol'."

Cruel Lawyers!

A lawyer was cross-examining a hapless witness. "Are you a teetotaler?" "No," the man replied. "Are you a moderate drinker?" "No answer." "Am I right in calling you a heavy drinker, then?" "That's my business." "Any other business?" asked the lawyer.—Atlanta Constitution.

Fashion Note

Where little Bessie lived pets were not allowed and clothes were much discussed. When she visited her grandmother she was delighted with a big yellow-and-white cat, and on returning home she described him to her little neighbors. "That cat is very, very beautiful," she declared enthusiastically. "He is pale brown, trimmed with white!"

So You're the Scoundrel "I left a quart of whisky in my berth this morning and forgot it when I left the train," the passenger complained to the conductor. "You didn't," exclaimed the railroad man. "Then you are the fellow to go bail out the porter. I wondered where he got it."—Atlanta Constitution.

Getting Together

Two elderly gentlemen, hard of hearing, were riding on a bus in London. One glanced out the window and said: "O, this must be Wembley." "No," said the other, "it's Thursday."

"I am too," replied the first, "so let's go and have a drink."

DOUBLES IN BRASS

"Great musician, Brown!" "News to me." "Well, he plays on everybody's confidence, harps on a subject till you get mad, and toots his own horn on every occasion."

Opinions

"Every man is entitled to his own opinion," remarked the assertive person.

"Of course," replied Miss Cayenne. "There is no objection to anybody's opinion so long as he cherishes it as his own." The annoyance consists in a too generous inclination to pass it around."

Opportunists

Two wives were discussing their husband's disinclination to work. "My husband sells balloons when the circus comes to town," said the one.

"And mine sells smoked glasses when there's an eclipse," said the other.—Boston Globe.

A Depressed Ego

"Why don't you get busy and try to be as great a man as George Washington?"

"What's the use?" rejoined Senator Sorghum. "The world has grown skeptical. Even if I succeeded, we couldn't make the public believe it."

Avoiding Unique Attitudes

"Why does the farmer complain so much about the way things are going?" "I don't know," answered Farmer Cornstossel. "Speaking for myself, it's because I don't want to seem different from everybody else."

Strange

Wily—There's a strange hair on your coat lapel, you worm! Hubby—Now, darling, that's a hair from our dog. It isn't a woman's hair, honestly. Wily—I know. That's what's strange about it.

Foreign Governments Buying American Bombers

Orders have been placed in the United States for more than $3,000,000 worth of Vultee attack bombers, like the one shown above. This fighting plane, of all metal construction, has a high speed of 237 m. p. h. a cruising range of 2,700 miles, and carries 1,100 pounds weight of bombs as well as a full crew and machine gun equipment.

KNOW THYSELF

by DR. GEORGE D. GREER

Is Shyness a Sign of Weakness?

WEAKNESS is an indication of weakness, then many of the world's greatest men were very weak in America alone a list of the public men who are known to have exhibited shyness habitually is amazing. Herbert Hoover was a shy man while in office; Coolidge was actually timid when with other people; Grant was ill at ease when with other people; Jefferson was unable to mix socially with any degree of success and held people at a distance; John Quincy Adams was very reserved and cautious, and George Washington was described by his biographers as "shy, silent, slow and cautious." Henry Ford and J. P. Morgan have made their shyness famous. Even Edwin Booth, the great actor, was a shy man off the stage. Shyness is a handicap, but it is not necessarily a weakness.

The Pleasure-loving Finger of Jupiter

BY NOW, of course, you have found analysis of forefingers a fascinating study in itself. And doubtless you have acquired some skill in placing them by type. The preceding group of lessons has endeavored to cover most of the classifications of types which you are likely to contact in your readings of hands. The list would not be complete, however, without a final forefinger type which is growing more common every day.

Pleasure-loving Finger of Jupiter. This type of forefinger has, like the other types, its own group of characteristics which may be quickly recognized. The most impressive are the smooth, plump appearance and symmetrical taper from root to tip.

The Pleasure-loving Finger of Jupiter is usually a shorter-than-average forefinger and is well fleshed. The knuckles have little prominence and are more evenly spaced than those of other types. The nail is usually well formed and free from ridges.

When widely extended, this type of forefinger stands away from both the thumb and second finger. Under pressure it is found to possess a surprising degree of flexibility, being easily bent far backward toward the wrist.

With such a finger you may place the owner as one whose main purpose in life is having all the fun that life can give. Coupled with an overfleshed, flexible thumb, not one but many pleasure-loving purposes are indicated, with over self-indulgence likely to cause difficulties.

STRANGE TRACKS IN THE GREEN FOREST

THERE were strange tracks deep in the Green Forest. Of course, it was Peter Rabbit who found them first. None but Peter or some one with curiosity as great as his would ever have been wandering about so deep in the Green Forest at that time of the year. It had popped into Peter's head one day that he would like to see how that part of the Green Forest way in deep at the very foot of the mountain looked when everything was covered with snow. So off he started, lipperty-lipperty-lip, as fast as he could go. The farther in he got, the fewer little people he saw and the fewer tracks to show that others had been there. By and by he saw no tracks at all. It was very, very still in the great white woods, so still that it seemed to Peter that he could actually feel the stillness. It gave him a creepy, lonesome feeling. The farther he went the more the creepy, lonesome feeling grew. Two or three times he almost decided to turn back, but each time his curiosity drove him on.

It looked as if Some One Had Brushed the Snow Off the Lower Branches of the Hemlock Trees in Passing.

"If I could sing I would," thought Peter, "for if I heard even my own voice it wouldn't seem so lonesome. There's nothing to be afraid of. Of course not. I'll go a little ways farther and then I'll go back."

So Peter went on, but every two or three hops he stopped to sit up and look and listen. It was so still in the great white woods that he could hear his own heart beat, and that creepy feeling had grown until if he had heard even a tiny noise he would have jumped almost out of his skin. He had just decided that no one ever came way off there so deep in the Green Forest in the winter, and had about decided to turn back, when he saw something just ahead of him. It looked as if someone had brushed the snow off the lower branches of the hemlock trees in passing. Peter hopped over there. And there he saw the strange tracks!

At first Peter thought that they had been made by Farmer Brown's boy, because they were so big. He stared at them. They looked something like the tracks Farmer Brown's boy left in the mud around the Smiling Pool when he went in swimming in the summer, but Peter knew that Farmer Brown's boy never went barefoot in winter. Of course not. Peter scratched his long left ear with his long right hindfoot and looked puzzled. Then he discovered something that made his heart jump right up in his throat. Whoever made those tracks had claws! Peter almost turned a somersault in his haste to get away.

He ran a little way as fast as he could and then stopped and sat up, looking and listening. No one was to be seen. Not a sound was to be heard. Peter slowly hopped back for another look at those strange tracks. But when he got near them the sight of them frightened him again just as before, and away he scurried. He did this several times, for no sooner would he get away than his curiosity would tempt him to go back. Finally, he ventured to sniff at them, but whoever had made them had done it so long before that there was no odor in the tracks and Peter was no wiser than before. But he felt no easier in his mind. It was too dreadfully still! And those strange tracks were so dreadfully big!

"This is no place for me," decided Peter, and started back for the dear Old Briar Patch as fast as his long legs could take him, for he had great news and it seemed to him that he should burst it if he didn't find some one soon to tell about the strange tracks he had found in the Green Forest.

Fiddles don't have much to do with beer, except that good ones and bad ones look a lot alike. It's how they're made that counts.

Altes Lager is brewed to Schimmel's Private Recipe* and that makes the big difference. It gives you a beer of highest quality and different from ordinary brews.
